Join us for the third Sea to Soil Symposium!

The Sea to Soil Symposium is a collaboration between FoodLab and the School of Marine and Atmospheric Sciences, focused on the intersection of terrestrial and marine resilient agriculture, climate, and sustainable food systems. This dynamic roundtable brings together operators, researchers, and institutions specializing in every aspect of the food system—from the sea to the soil.

FoodLab is a regional incubator fostering innovation through education, experiential learning, and industry partnerships. As a hub dedicated to addressing food-related challenges, FoodLab advances regenerative practices, workforce training, and ecological stewardship to build more sustainable, equitable, and resilient food systems.
